Graduate School Application - Checklist

Your application will be reviewed when all required materials have been submitted to the Graduate School. We recommend applying online and uploading your documents on your MyMichiganTech website.

1. Complete and submit your online application.
   - Create a Login ID and six-digit PIN
   - Login and select the appropriate Graduate Application (Domestic or International)
   - Complete each section of the the application
   - Confirm that your application information is correct and agree to the Affirmation Statement by clicking on the "Submit Application" button

2. Receive access to your personalized MyMichiganTech website by email (sent within a week of your application submission)
   - Upload your required documents
   - Request your Letters of Recommendation
   - Upload any other supplemental materials you would like considered during your application process
   - Track the status of your application and watch for announcements from the Graduate School

Additional Resources

Resources for Prospective Students
Want to learn more about our graduate programs, cost of education, or campus? This website is a good starting point for all prospective graduate students.

How to Apply Website
This website has more information on how to apply, frequently asked questions, and additional admissions forms.

Admission Types
Your admissions process may vary depending on if you are applying to a program for the first time, looking to be nondegree seeking, or are already pursuing a graduate degree on campus. Find more information here about how to apply based on your student type.

Graduate Program Websites
Each program has different admission requirements and application deadlines. We encourage you to visit the websites of your programs of interest to verify what requirements are needed. Once you apply your required documents will be listed on your MyMichiganTech website.

Application Requirements Website
This website provides the Graduate School eligibility requirements and provides more information about required application documents.

Resources for Admitted Students
Once you have been admitted, this website will provide you with guidance on what to do before you come to campus, what to expect your first semester, how to get involved on campus, and much more.